FOREWORD

If in the coming years the following pages will serve to bring to mind happy hours spent in Morris Harvey; if the result of our work will help in any way to remind students of the debt of gratitude each owes his Alma Mater; if, in glancing through these leaves, so filled with pleasant memory, those whose footsteps once echoed through the halls will relive their college days and again see familiar faces and scenes,—then our labors on the Harveyan of 1930 will not have been in vain.

DEDICATION

To one whose years of service for Morris Harvey College have been years of untiring and unselfish devotion, and who, with sympathy and sincerity is striving to make our school a greater college,—to

CLYDE L. HARSHBARGER

The chief work of the Morris Harvey Rural Life Club during the 1929-'30 term has been the organization of the Log Cabin Brigade. This was carried out through radio programs, broadcast every Monday afternoon through Station WSAZ, Huntington. Membership in the Brigade was open to every person born in a log house. Responses to the programs were many, and more than 150 members were listed in the Log Cabin Brigade during the year. At times members of the club were assisted in broadcasting by other students of the school. For the most part, however, the programs were presented by The Log Cabin Soprano, Kathleen Clay; The Log Cabin Alto, Maxie Moore; The Log Cabin Tenor, Beale Yoak or Elmo Kelley; and the Log Cabin Bass, Carl Radford. Either Prof. Riggleman or Prof. Kirby usually acted as announcer, and various members of the club cooperated in arranging programs.

The single production of The Blackfriars Players, as listed above, was considered an adequate revival of the dramatic art in Morris Harvey College. The chief work of The Players during the term has been devoted to remodeling and refurnishing the College Auditorium. This was achieved with remarkable success. The stage was enlarged, two sets of flats built and put into use, a scenic back drop and wood wings prepared and a new Red and Gold curtain installed. The entire Auditorium was repainted, new lights installed, both for house and stage lighting, and new dressing rooms built.

Organizations—1929-'30

The 1929-'30 term of school has seen a remarkable growth in organizations on the Morris Harvey campus.

For the first time competition entered the fraternity field, for with the organization of Beta Chapter of Phi Sigma Phi Fraternity two social chapters were in existence here, which condition had never before prevailed. Little competition between this order and Zeta Kappa was shown during the term, each organization working directly to strengthen itself. ZK pledged a large class and produced its seventh annual minstrel. However, it is probable that with rushing season next term a lively and healthy competition will be shown there.

Epsilon Chapter of Chi Beta Phi enjoyed an unusually good year. However, its ranks will be greatly depleted by graduation, and it bids fair to start the 1930-'31 term in a much diminished condition.

Sigma Upsilon, Harveyan Chapter, which was, until near the close of the 1928-'29 term, the old Scribbler Club, experienced a year of regeneration, and most of its time was devoted to establishing the new chapter. Literary activities were given little attention until near the close of the term. A play was produced.

Two social sororities sprung up near the opening of the term, filling a long felt need on the campus. Phi Lambda Tau and Phi Kappa Sigma are each firmly established, and each carried out during the term commendable activities which promise much for succeeding years. Alpha Mu maintained its literary standard and produced a play, as usual. It is understood that this sorority is tending strongly toward nationalization.

This fraternal order growth has called forth a need for Inter-Fraternity and Pan-Hellenic organizations, and it is probable that both will be in existence for the opening of the 1930-'31 term.

Christian organizations, Y. M., Y. W. and Life Service Group, carried on in commendable manner, sponsored many interesting chapel programs, and exerted a strong influence throughout the student body. A sub organization in the Life Service Group consisted of ministerial students alone.

The strong revival of dramatics, both by the reorganization of The Blackfriar Players and throughout other organizations, was a feature of the year.

The Varsity Club enjoyed a healthy reorganization, abandoned the fraternity system of existence, and became a club pure and simple. It engineered many advances in the athletic award system.

Student Government made itself more felt during the term than ever before. Both publication staffs acquitted themselves well. The Rural Life Club, sponsoring the Log Cabin Brigade, rendered unusually meritorious service to the college. The organization of The Polyglot Club and the Classic Club awakened much interest in the language departments.

The Morris Harvey Singers and The Debating Club lacked the strength of former years, and the need of a well organized college orchestra or band was keenly felt.

“Sidelines”

By “Brad” Bradshaw

It was a tough season for the “Eagles” and the “Eaglets” on the gridiron and when the curtain rung down on one of the hardest schedules ever faced by a Red and Gold team, we found that several “tail feathers” were missing.

As an educational value the season was a great success. “Cack” Lewis and his “sick” cylinder jolt buggy had carried us over many miles of unfor-seen territory. Also the boys who were held out of the games in order to be in good condition for the dances put the school on the social map.

Chester Hager faired some better in his political campaign during the present season. He will leave the college with several inches added to his chest measure and perhaps a foot to his waist line as he is considered a very able leader and organizer of revolutions.

It did not take long for Dr. Alpha Owens and Dean Lasley, new members of the faculty, to become attached to one another. In fact their conversations in the latter’s office sounded as if they were man and wife. It would have been tough for the dean had his desk not been nailed to the floor.

Floyd Pribble, big square dance and “red lantern” man from Cairo, is to be numbered in the David Kirby Class of ’30, but has coached Carter Bundy, pilot of the “Bugology” team, to carry on his noble work next year.

From a social standpoint the greatest loss to the college through graduation will be “Major” Dudley and Frank Arritt, two of the greatest “parlor athletes” ever turned out by the college. Both are ex-captains of the Rosa Harvey “sofa team.”

Prof. Blackwell tells us that the lab experiments carried out by Steve and Kay were something new in the field of natural science.

The early workout of track candidates seemed to be a “blind” and was used merely to get their legs in shape to play the outfield during baseball season.

Ted Robinette, recently elected student body president, will lecture at the beginning of next year on “How to Carry On a Business Meeting.”

The “Eagles” failed to have much success in “Dehorning” the “Thundering Herd” during the year. But they did force them to uncork some brand new alibis and fail to take any chances on referees.

This is the last of our “bull” that will be slung during our happy days at M. H. C. We have no sympathy for our fellow students or we would have quit long ago. Here’s hoping the college will produce another “Farmer” Hay who will speak from the heart with malice toward none.

Song of the Hunt

Dedicated to Dr. R. S. Pond

PRELUDE

*Oh, take your snickersnee in hand,
Oh, come and join our merry band,
And if you get nine hours per year
Why, you're a genius, never fear.*

*Oh, some there are whose natal star,
When first they were a-being,
Foretold their fame and sounding name
In sculling or scrapping or skiing;
Oh, some there be who giggle with glee
As they tell of their feats acrobatic;
But we are they who always say,
"Why, we're of the hunt mathematic!"
For that is the best of all;
Of this we're as sure as can be,
For none are as wise among all the guys,
As we. Just we.*

*When we surround and hunt around
And the trail of a full grown equation,
By our chief has been found, on the trees or the ground,
(Best one of the purple persuasion)
With an echoing shout we all start out,
Laughing and singing with joy,
And he who first sees our prey in the trees
Is a bright and original boy.
Oh, we worry that wooly equation,
And ne'er let it out of our sight,
And cause in its mind agitation,
Which is right. Quite right.*

*Propositions we climb, but merely in time
To watch our foe take to the air,
Yet, when on low ground, we take a look 'round
To see where we are, it is there.
Thru darksome proportions we go, with contortions
And imminent peril to life;
Alas, but to find we've been left behind,
And are far from material strife.
With skill quite aquatic we swim each quadratic,
(Sometimes the worst part of the hunt)
And sometimes we capture, with hard earned rapture,
And sometimes—we don't.*

THE HARVEYAN

ARTHUR E. REZZONICO

Coach and Director of Athletics

In his first year of coaching at Morris Harvey, "Rezzy" has made many changes in the athletic system of the school. It must be said that his victories have been in re-organization rather than on the field, but this bids fair to the growth of a strong athletic system which will lead to team victories in the future. His foundational work has been done well, and its results will be shown more in future teams than those of the present term.

The 1929 Football Season

Twelve games comprises a "hefty" schedule for the best teams, but it was with only mediocre strength that the Golden Eagles of the Gridiron attempted such a list in 1929. That the entire schedule was a series of defeats was no surprise to followers of the Red and Gold. However, it was a wonderful training field for a green group of football men, and its strenuous days may mean much to coming seasons.

A training camp, under supervision of "Rezzy", opened a week before the opening of the term. Quite a large number of prospective players were present, and labored incessantly to prepare for the first game, which lead them into conflict with Davis and Elkins, the strongest team in West Virginia—possibly the strongest in this region. Approximately three-fourths of the squad was made up of freshmen, Zelazo, Bradshaw, Brooks, Arritt, Lewis, Fleger Snodgrass Pibble and Johnson were the veterans which the team had to rely upon. Many of these had not played football together previously.

With them gathered McCoy, Kessler, Chaffin, Smith, Morrison, Cremeans, Lindsay Warner, Backus, Gribble, Jackson, Wood, Rupe and Gray. At times other men were out for the team, but the group listed are the ones who stuck throughout the long and dreary days of the 1929 season, playing against tremendous odds, never tasting victory, but staying with the proposition and fighting through to a victory which will eventually count for more, both in their lives and in the history of Morris Harvey, than victories in scores might have done.

To one man, one who was forced by necessity to leave the school near the middle of the season, goes the honor of having scored Morris Harvey's only touchdown of 1929. "Pritch" Mills, a freshman from Oak Hill, ran 60 yards through the entire Marshall team for the lone touchdown.

There is another side to athletics than that seen on the field by the crowds. That is the organization and system which stands behind the team and which determines largely the means the team will have with which to play games. At the opening of the 1929 season this was an indeterminate quality with the Golden Eagles. By the end of the season it was established firmly enough that every student in the college was aware of it. The way that led to this victory was not easy, and many men, lacking vision and faith, dropped from the squad during the season. Those who stuck made the victory possible.

Other things being equal, the 1930 season should be a continuation of the 1929 one, except that results of the 1929 team's work should be more and more evident as the schedule for 1930 progresses. More victories in scores should be evident; more general power at the game should be possessed by future squads; and credit for this progress must largely be given to the 1929 squad—those hardy warriors who played without flinching throughout the lean years, and gave their best, not that they might enjoy victory, but that future teams of Eagles might realize this enjoyment.

THE HARVEYAN

"ERNIE" McCOY

Coming to college from Oak Hill High School, "Mac" made an unusually good showing on the gridiron. His position is right guard, and he held that job regularly during the season.

"FLICK" JOHNSON

"Flick", an experienced athlete, played his first season in Red and Gold in the backfield. Usually he was to be seen at left half. Opponents called him "Rabbit" because he ran so fast and so close to the ground.

STEVE ZELAZO

It was good to see Steve again in the backfield. He saw service with the Eagles in 1927, but was out of school during the 1928 season. This season he was used at left end a great part of the time. He was usually on the sending or receiving end of some forward pass.

"COWBOY" KESSLER

Either in the backfield or on end, "Cowboy" turned in a good record. His work throughout the season promises much for future years.

EDDIE CHAFFIN

A product of Man High School is Chaffin, and although a small man as football players go, proved his ability to take and give as much as many of his larger opponents. Usually he was seen in the backfield.

THE HARVEYAN

"BERT" BROOKS

As the most capable punter on the squad, Bert saw much emergency service during the season. He also played much in the line and on end. He is always counted on to turn in a steady game.

"BRAD" BRADSHAW

With the graduation of "Brad" one of the greatest football men to ever attend Morris Harvey will leave the school. During the four years of his college career he never missed a practice. It has been his persistence and fighting spirit that has made him outstanding rather than any native ability.

ED SMITH

"Big Ed," he was called during football season. He started the season without former gridiron experience. Before its close he was considered one of the best defensive linemen and a tackler to be feared.

KYLE MORRISON

Giving his best at every opportunity, Morrison made his way into several varsity games during the season, and looks like good material for the future.

PAUL BACKUS

Diminutive though he is, Backus knows how to run a ball or a team, and he received experience at both. He was often called upon to assume the quarterback job, and his work proved effective against several teams.

TAYLOR CREMEANS

Another athlete without football experience at the opening of the season was Cremeans. By the time the twelve game schedule was played, however, he had some.

"DOC" FLEGER

His second season with the Eagles saw "Doc" in service much more than his first. Sometimes at end, sometimes in the line, and now and then in the backfield, he proved to be an unusually capable utility man.

FRANK ARRITT

Captaining the 1929 football team was no easy task, and might have proved impossible to a lesser man than Frank. During the early part of the season he was a tower of strength at right end, and later, at fullback, he proved to be a great ball carrier. With his graduation the Red and Gold gridiron loses another "happy warrior."

"RED" SNODGRASS

Center was the position in which Red received most of his experience during the 1929 season, his second with Morris Harvey. However, he was a good utility man and was often used in other line positions.

"JEFF" LEWIS

When Jeff connected with his man he stayed tackled and down. As a tackle it has been that he has achieved most of his reputation as a football man. Very few plays were ever put over him by even the strongest teams.

JACK GRIBBLE

Gribble made an outstanding Freshman record on the gridiron. He had some football experience during his high school days, and under the concentrated attention of the local coaching system this developed rapidly.

CECIL LINDSAY

A man not pictured above, but who deserves much credit, is Cecil Lindsay, former all-state high school center. He was with the Eagles more than half the season, when circumstances finally demanded that he withdraw from school. His work at center was consistently that which won him his former honor.

"RUDY" PRIBBLE

Playing his third and last year for the Eagles, Rudy turned in a good record at a regular guard berth. His former experience had been backfield, but he proved an unusually good lineman.

"SWEDE" WOOD

"Swede" was a little bit the biggest of any man on the squad. His weight was a big factor in the line, and his left tackle was one which most teams learned to avoid. His offensive work was as good as his defensive.

"STONEWALL" JACKSON

One of the many freshmen carried with the Red and Gold squad, Jack distinguished himself at either half or full back. An unusually able ball carrier, he gives promise of giving anyone a close run for a backfield berth in the future.

JOHN RUPE

Although light, Rupe played at every opportunity throughout the season. He played either at guard or end as well as occasionally filling other gaps in the line.

RAY GRAY

At right guard or center Gray usually found his place. However, he too was used in emergency throughout the lineup, and played almost any line position with ability.

ARGEL WARNER

The camera failed to catch Argel in action. As a reserve he worked throughout the season in various line positions and turned in a good defensive game.

The 1930 Basketball Season

A brilliant season, although marred at times by evident inconsistencies, was turned in by the Golden Eagles of the Hardwood Court as their record for 1930.

Somehow, games away from home were difficult to win. In general there was no complaint concerning officiating at these games, and no alibi for losing them. It simply seemed that there was not reserve strength in the squad sufficient to trim a series of opponents on their home floors.

Yet the squad had in reserve the most promising material of recent years. It was green to college basketball, however, and though promising in both power and ability, will not reach its full strength until in the future.

The season record does not fully indicate the immense fighting strength of the 1930 Eagles. On February 4 and 6, the squad seemed to reach its peak of power. On those days they met, respectively, Fairmont State Teachers' College and Salem College teams, and defeated them in two of the most spell binding basketball encounters ever witnessed in the local gym. Many old Red and Gold fans declared the team to be the fastest one ever produced by Morris Harvey, and predicted a long series of wins for it.

But the spell seemed broken when they went on a trip soon after those encounters and lost to Alderson, Bluefield and Morehead. Nevertheless, an improvement in certain departments of the game was steadily evident. The team simply seemed to lack the one essential of being able to get together in the highest meaning of that term.

In three contests with Marshall College a steady improvement was shown, and in the last of the series, played in Huntington, the Eagles led the Green during most of the game, only to lose out at the very end.

Against Glenville Normal, the 1930 Champs, the Eagles displayed a wonderful sort of basketball—a sort that would have defeated any other team on their schedule. The game was won in the last second by Glenville, who led by one point as the gun cracked.

The work of this squad, like that of the football team, will probably be more productive in the coming seasons than it was in this one. Although Arritt and Pribble will be lost by graduation this year, and Zelazo will be a senior next year, Hoff will be only a Junior and Cremeans, Martin, Wood and McCoy, as well as Chaffin, Rupe, Fry and others, will be only sophomores. Should next year's freshman class produce such a crop of basketball men as did this year's, the future of Morris Harvey on the court looks very bright for the next decade.

ARRITT, G.

HOFF, F.

CREMEANS, F.

FRANK ARRITT

Playing his last season for the Red and Gold, Frank gave one of the most brilliant guard performances ever witnessed on the local gym floor. In every game he was considered a first class performer. His one weakness was a too great tendency to foul, and he left several games by this route. Such was his ability, however, that a sigh of dismay always shook the Morris Harvey rooting section when he left the floor for the showers. It was very infrequently that an opposing player got away from Frank. During the season his record showed 23 field goals, for he was an excellent long shot; he scored 20 out of 42 attempted foul shots, recording a total of 66 points; he made 54 personal fouls.

LOUIE HOFF

Most games of the season Louie acted as captain for the Eagles, and proved a capable one. Although small, he is one of the quickest and most adroit players to ever wear the Red and Gold, and thus entirely makes up for his lack of weight and height. His record for the season shows 52 field goals, 22 out of 35 foul shots, a total of 126 points, and 22 personals. He has two more years with Morris Harvey.

TAYLOR CREMEANS

Probably no freshman has ever made such a remarkable record on a Morris Harvey team as did Cremeans during the 1930 basketball season. His work with other members of the team was of the highest sort, and he proved outstanding as a ball handler, passer and long shot. Sixty-three field goals were credited to him, with 29 out of 47 attempted foul shots, for a total of 154 points. His personal fouls amounted to 36, but he left very few games on this account. It is being strongly hoped that Taylor will be present with the Eagles when the 1931 season opens, although circumstances may take him elsewhere.

MARTIN, C.

ZELAZO, G.

Wood, G.

PRIBBLE, F.

DORSEY MARTIN

To Dorsey Martin goes high point honor for the year, for he totaled 209 points with 85 field goals and 35 out of 68 attempted foul shots. This product of Carroll High School, Hamlin, continued his unusual secondary school record in his first year of college, and made a record as outstanding in many ways as that of Cremeans. He, too, had 36 personals called on him during the season, but seldom was put out of a game on this account.

STEVE ZELAZO

It took Steve a while to recover sufficiently from football injuries and he was late getting started at basketball. However, when he did come onto the floor, his position at guard was immediately cinched. As usual, he turned in wonderful floor work and was as good on the defense as the offense. He scored 12 field goals and 13 out of 22 foul attempts. He had 16 personals called on him. His total points were 37.

CARL WOOD

"Swede" showed as much progress in basketball as he did in football, and was quite often used at guard. His height was of great advantage to the team, and against the average opponent Morris Harvey was able to control the ball with "Swede" in the game. That he was varsity material makes his freshman record outstanding. His scoring record of three field goals and three out of seventeen foul shots does not indicate his value to the team. He had 27 personal fouls called on him.

FLOYD PRIBBLE

"Rudy" was utility man with the squad most of the year, and acquitted himself well whenever he received the opportunity. He quite often was forced to enter the game at positions unfamiliar to him, but was always reliable. He plays an offensive game best, but was also to be reckoned with as a defensive guard. Three field goals, two out of six foul shots, a total eight points, with five personals, was his scoring record.

McCoy, G.

FLEGER, F.

WHITE, F.

LEWIS, C.

ERNEST McCOY

McCoy's varsity record for the year was one out of two foul attempts and two personal fouls. However, this does not indicate his value to the team as reserve material, for he was quite often called upon to take a place in strongly contended games. He always gave a creditable account of himself, and will probably give someone a close race for a regular guard berth next season.

ROBERT FLEGER

"Doc" played throughout the season as a utility man, and came through with a clean slate. He scored nothing and had no personals called on him. However, he added to the reserve material and could always be depended upon to adequately fill a position, either at forward or at guard, if needed.

EVERETT WHITE

White cleared the season also with a clean record. His dependence as reserve material made him worth much to the squad. Entering college at the opening of the winter quarter, he found the team practices well under way, and his ability to step in at that time and make a place for himself as a steady reserve indicates basketball strength which may mean much in coming seasons.

WILMER LEWIS

"Jeff" also proved to be good reserve material, and relieved regular members of the squad at many points. Usually he substituted at center, and was adroit at maintaining control of the ball from that position. During the season he scored one field goal, three out of six foul attempts and totaled nine personal fouls.

PATTON, C.

ADKINS, F.

CHAFFIN, F.

RUPE, G.

HOBART PATTON

Most of the season Patton appeared with the Freshman Five, and did a good job as center on that team. However, now and then reserve material was needed for the varsity, and this team helped to furnish it. In varsity contests he scored two field goals, two out of three foul shots and had five personals called on him. Patton gives promise of good material for future years, as do the remainder of his Freshman Five team mates.

ROBERT ADKINS

An adroit shot, Adkins spent most of the season with the Freshman Five, but managed to enter several varsity games to score one field goal and receive two personals. Illness prevented him from taking part throughout the season, but the showing he was able to achieve indicated that he will be contending material for a regular position within the next two years.

EDDIE CHAFFIN

Three field goals and two out of two foul shots, with three personals, is the record Eddie received in varsity games during the season. Another member of the Freshman Five, he made many varsity trips and was frequently called upon to assume a regular position. His work showed much improvement throughout the season, and he is considered a likely contender for next year's varsity.

JOHN RUPE

Starting with the Freshman Five, Rupe soon developed much ability as a guard, and was often used by the varsity. Throughout the season he showed well on the defense, sticking doggedly with his man, and allowing few points to be made through him. Although he was never in a position to score, and although he received no personal fouls, in varsity games, his work at the end of the season was much improved over that of the beginning, and further consistent development will make him a varsity contender within the next two seasons.

1930 Intra-Mural Tournament Results

To the Junior Class went the honor of winning the first Intra-Mural Tournament held in Morris Harvey in recent years. In the finals, March 22, they won from the Seniors by a score of 20-6. They had previously downed the Freshmen 15-10, while the Seniors had defeated the Sophomores 27-13.

The following shows the line up and points scored in the final games as well as in the other games of the tourney:

WOMEN'S TOURNAMENT

The women of the various gym classes organized teams and contended in the Intra-Mural tournament. Team One defeated team Three in the final game, the score being 30-16. Team Three went into the finals by virtue of its defeat of team Four and team One entered them when team Two forfeited their game.

Golden Eagles of the Diamond

The 1930 Baseball Squad bids fair to be a powerful one, although some lack of pitching strength is evident. Many Freshmen are on the squad, as well as several veterans, and they face a hard schedule of approximately twenty-four games. Early results on this list indicate that the team will break even on the season, with the possibility of being in the winning column slightly more than half the time.

The Tennis Team

Under the coaching of Prof. C. J. Harris, the 1930 Tennis Team appears to have prospect of being the strongest in recent years. Three former veterans are playing, they being Arritt, Radford and Hodson. A thorough and well conducted tennis tourney early in the spring brought out all latent talent and added the fourth man to the squad, Ernest Snodgrass. Arritt, Radford and Hodson all graduate this year; Snodgrass is a sophomore.

A Great Past . . . and A Great Future

No institution anywhere in this entire region may point to a greater record for service in the educational field, nor in the field of Christianity, than Morris Harvey College.

No institution holds more promise for future service to youth, both in education and religion, than Morris Harvey College.

Founded in Christian faith by men and women who loved truth, it has adopted a motto which indicates the survival of this spirit in the student body of today.

From its old and historic administration building to its great new dormitories on the hill, Morris Harvey College exemplifies a glorious past and an even more glorious future.
